If you're going to the All Blacks game, take the bus and get there early!

Nelson City Council will be running extra FREE buses between Richmond, Stoke and Nelson to get you to the All Blacks game and home again. Leave the car at home, relax and enjoy the pre-match entertainment before the game! With over 20,000 people coming to the game you won't want to be stuck finding a car park.

All NBUS services will be FREE from noon until midnight on game day, 8 September 2018.

Getting there

From 2.30pm through to 5.45pm there will be extra services running every 15 minutes on NBUS routes 1 and 2 from Richmond, Stoke and Nelson to the Whakatū Carpark behind the NBUS depot in Bridge St. From there it's a short walk to the market in Trafalgar St and to the game.

These free buses will stop at all the usual bus stops on Routes 1 and 2 so just walk to your local bus stop or park close to the bus route.

Getting home

Free buses will be waiting in the Whakatū Carpark behind the NBUS depot in Bridge St, running regularly from 10pm until 11.30pm to take you back home.

From midnight until 3.30am, the Late Late Bus will be running every 30 minutes on its usual route to Stoke and Richmond via Tahunanui. A $4 fare will apply to services after midnight.

The city and the roads will be busy on game day so we recommend you come into Nelson early and enjoy the activities.

Keep up to date with Game Day happenings: check Council's Facebook page, the Nelson App or the Game Day website for road closures, other transport and parking options.

Remember there is plenty to do throughout the afternoon in Nelson at the 'EXPERIENCE RUGBY HISTORY' All Blacks vs Argentina Game Day Fan Trail so hit town early and make a day of it!

Help the kererū – plant a tree!

The Great Kererū Count is on again, from 21–30 September 2018.

This year we'll be doing a native tree giveaway at the Saturday Market, on 15 September from 9am, to remind people how important kererū are to our native forests. All the trees we are giving away are species that kererū love to feed on, so you'll be helping feed the birds by planting one.

Come and find us at the Nelson Nature stand, at the Saturday Market in Montgomery Square from 9–10.30am (or until all the trees are gone!). Pick up a native tree that will feed kererū and other native birds, and information on how you can take part in the Great Kererū Count 2018.

Broadgreen Historic House exhibition marks 125 years of women's suffrage

Have you ever wondered what life was like in 1893, when New Zealand women won the right to vote?

The latest exhibition at Broadgreen Historic House, The Suffragists at Home gives Nelsonians an opportunity to step back in time and take a closer look at life inside a New Zealand house 125 years ago.

On 19 September 1893, after submitting a petition with nearly 32,000 signatures, New Zealand became the first self-governing country to grant women the vote.

Suffragists at Home: Stitching and styles for a cause provides visitors with the chance to see women's stitched crafts, clothing and accessories used in the quest to help New Zealand women get the vote.

The exhibition took five months to prepare, with some intricate clothing pieces taking 10 hours each to make. Suffragists at Home provides the opportunity to gain a rare insight into life in 1893.

Chair of the Community Services Committee Gaile Noonan says it is important that we don't take things like the right to vote for granted.

"Life was hard for women in the past, and yet they still had the courage to pursue the women's vote. We should be encouraging all women to exercise their hard-won right to vote," says Councillor Noonan.

"I can imagine the conversations they were having when they were stitching, I would love to have been a fly on the wall to listen to all their radical plans."

What: Suffragists at Home
Where: Broadgreen Historic House
When: Open daily, 11am–3pm
Cost: Free for Nelson residents
